

Ferry traffic across Puget Sound is never a sure thing, under normal conditions. I can't imagine what it would be like with airport-like screening. Impossible!

There are so many ways terrorists could do great harm, but there is NO way we can protect ourselves from all of them. And if we pick ferries as one of those necessary points to protect, the economy of the whole Puget Sound area will be destroyed. So what will we have gained?